Planets for May

Mercury is not visible this month; it is in superior conjunction on May 31.

Venus is not visible this month.

Mars, in Pisces, rises about 2 hours before the Sun, and is low in the east at sunrise.

Jupiter, in Leo, is high in the south at sunset, and sets about 6 hours later. On May 1 it is stationary, and resumes its direct (eastward) motion relative to the background stars.

Saturn, in Capricornus, rises about 3.5 hours before the Sun, and is low in the southeast at sunrise. On May 29 it is stationary, begins retrograde (westward) motion.

Pluto, on the Libra-Serpens border, is at opposition on May 12.

NCRAL Convention Reminder

The NCRAL (North Central Region Astronomical League) convention will be held in Milwaukee on April 24th and 25th. Talks, featured speakers, field trips and observing sessions will be offered at this event. We presently have about a half dozen club members going. I hope you plan on joining us, as this is a fun weekend concerning our favorite hobby. Those who need registration forms or additional information should call Ron Parmentier at 336-5878.
